Strategic Guide:

Social and Economic Opportunity

Background:

During previous Board of County Commission discussions, Community Support Services and Court Services were asked to identify opportunities to re-allocate funding to reduce incarceration and recidivism with a focus on prevention. Staff were asked to engage community members working in the area of jail reentry to plan for the initiation of reentry services. Over the course of four meetings, more than twenty individuals met to discuss incarceration experiences and the needs of those returning to the community. Discussion topics included direct operation by the County or solicitation for an entity to operate, location relative to the jail, government offices or community office space. Key aspects of discussion included the need to include impacted individuals in all levels of the operation of a reentry hub; connection/provision of needed social and therapeutic services; low barrier; and a supportive, healing environment. The end goal is to reduce recidivism by promoting community inclusion and reengagement.
