EXHIBIT 1: Scope of Services/Duties of University

The University will assist Alachua County staff with the development of alternative methods for reducing leachate generation at the Alachua County Southwest Landfill and other miscellaneous solid waste tasks. Specific tasks include, but are not limited to:

- 1. The University will investigate alternative treatment and disposal technologies for managing Alachua County Southwest Landfill leachate. This includes evaluation of secondary treatment and disposal alternatives (e.g., constructed wetlands, sprayfield) considering alternative RO stage treatment levels. This investigation will be used to create a conceptual design of modifications to the existing RO treatment facility with a secondary effluent treatment and disposal system that is deemed to be the most optimal of the explored technologies. In the previous research cycle, the University prepared a conceptual design and permit application for a new RO permeate irrigation area to relocate the existing RO permeate sprayfield from its current location on the closed landfill cap. The University will compare this alternative to the alternative described above.
- The University will assist Alachua County with submitting a grant application through the Solid Waste Infrastructure for Recycling Grant Program for constructing a Household Hazardous Waste Collection Center.

The budget for tasks 1 and 2 is $ 60,000.
